15th Sunday in Ordinary Time

16 July 2017

Today's Second Reading from St Paul reminds us that not only men and women are suffering under the brokenness of life brought about by human sin, but also all creation suffers with us: animals, plants, oceans - everything! Yet St Paul promises us that our groans and creation's groans are the labor pains of the new creation God is giving birth to through the victory Jesus won for creation on his cross. One day, the new creation God is making us to be will be revealed: "For creation waits with eager expectation for the revealing of the children of God." Romans 8:19
